OMNI CENTER--UPCOMING EVENTS, MEETINGS and CALENDAR

ON BEING VOCAL AND VISIBLE

From April until last Saturday, OMNI had a presence on the Square every Saturday morning at the Fayetteville Farmer’s Market. A variety of folks stopped by to sign petitions, pick up free information, purchase buttons and bumper stickers. Some were curious about who we were; a few were angry that we were there.

These were people who, with great sincerity, stated that we had no right to promote peace in a time of war. How dare we, they wondered, question our government’s actions when our young men and women were fighting for our country in Afghanistan and Iraq. Our consistent response was, and is, that it is not only our right to do so, but our duty.

Our legacy from those who gave us a framework in which to function as a republic had foresight as well as an understanding of human nature. They established three branches of government to represent the citizens, their goal being that no one branch gain too much power.

Today, we face the grave danger of an executive branch that is running roughshod over our civil rights and a congress that will not, or can not, rein it in. So, the responsibility falls to us as “we, the people.” We can not allow ourselves to be intimidated by increasing efforts to discredit us. We must join with other activists across this country, our country. Now is the time to gather strength by standing together and by raising our voices until we are heard and recognized from one end of Pennsylvania Avenue to the other.

January 9, Wednesday, 7-9 p.m., Unitarian Universalist Fellowship, 901 W. Cleveland, Fayetteville, Michael Dowd and Connie Barlow (Connie at 6-6:45pm; Michael at 7-9pm) - Most writers would be thrilled to have a Nobel laureate endorse their new book. For author Michael Dowd, no less than five Nobel laureates — most in the sciences — have written glowing reviews of praise for Dowd’s unique take on evolution. But add in the fact that Reverend Michael Dowd was once a conservative evangelical who protested the teaching of evolution and things get interesting! With new polls showing Americans as deeply divided as ever over the origins of life, Dowd’s brand new book, Thank God For Evolution!: How the Marriage of Science and Religion Will Transform Your Life (Council Oak Books) is already being celebrated on both sides of the debate. For more information on the presenters see www.thankgodforevolution.com and also their older website www.thegreatstory.org (look for the "version 1.0" link) to find writings as well as free audio and video presentations on both websites. If you would like to attend a preview screening of DVDs on the work of Dowd and Barlow, please email leigh@herwords.org or call 582-9209 for more information.

HIST 399V (Special Topics, 3 hours credit): "Mahatma Gandhi, Martin Luther King, Jr., and the Dalai Lama: The Fate of Non-Violence in the 21st Century."
Course Description:
This course will examine the history of non-violence by studying the careers of Mahatma Gandhi, Martin Luther King, Jr., and the Dalai Lama. Professor Burris will provide the socio-historical lectures surrounding these three figures, while Geshe Dorjee will teach the philosophy and practice of non-violence that directed the lives of these three extraordinary individuals. The course will familiarize the students not only with the philosophical context for these revolutionary ideas, but will also examine the historical consequences of its practice, from India’s fight for independence to the Civil Rights movement in America. The course will conclude with an in-depth examination of the community of Tibetans in exile as they are currently being led by the Dalai Lama. A substantial component of the course will also be given to understanding how the principles of non-violence might be profitably adopted in our own lives as cogent responses to the political and social crises that are erupting both here in America and abroad. Aside from anthologies of work by Gandhi and King, a selection of other books and films central to an understanding of non-violence will be consulted.

BETSY WRIGHT ORGANIZING GIFTS FOR DEATH ROW INMATES

It will be time for Christmas and seasonal celebrations by each of you, as well as by Arkansas’s death row inmates.

I am coordinating the production of a bag for each guy to contain two t-shirts, two pairs of socks, pads of writing paper, writing pens, pre-stamped envelopes, hot chocolate mix, and some nuts and candies. (How I wish we could add a couple of oranges and apples, but they are forbidden fruits, as the prison management says some inmates make wine from them!)

In addition, the Dept. of Correction has made a contract with one of its commissary vendors to offer a food sack for relatives and friends to give to an inmate. The maximum sack costs $111.00. Ten of the 38 guys on the Row have someone who will buy the sack for them as a gift. With your help, we will see to it that the remaining 28 men also receive a food sack.

So, I am asking for your help in putting together enough money to make both of these Holiday and Christmas sacks possible. Any contribution will be helpful and my gratitude will be enormous!

Checks should be made out to me please.

2008 $500 ANNUAL OMNI CRITICAL THINKING AWARDS FOR TEACHERS IN WASHINGTON AND BENTON COUNTIES, ARKANSAS

What is Critical Thinking?

Critical Thinking is the use of knowledge, facts, science, evidence, logic to evaluate and understand ideas and information, to detect falsehood, and to form conclusions, judgments, and inferences.

Why do we need it?

Today, more than ever before, we are bombarded with commercial and political propaganda. Clear Thinking enables us to decide if what we read and hear is true, factual, biased, or manipulative. Clear Thinking also enables us to recognize our own fallacious thinking, biases, and assumptions. Reasoning together through knowledge and language is an alternative to violence. The practice of Critical Thinking helps, by creating active, informed citizens, invigorates democracy. “Critical thinking skills” imply an ability to analyze ideas, stories, claims, and assertions both through relevant, factual knowledge and by training in analysis and by being able to think for oneself. Independent mindedness and autonomy have long been considered essential to a democracy since President Jefferson.

These awards are sponsored by OMNI Center for Peace, Justice, and Ecology.

We at OMNI are devoted to the advancement of reasoned contemplation and conversation about issues that affect our community and world. We seek to extend the influence of reason and informed debate. The deadline for nominations in May 1, 2008.
INVITATIONS TO TEACHERS, THE OMNI CRITICAL THINKING AWARDS

UMA THURMAN AND TOMMY LEE JONES TO CO-HOST NOBEL PEACE CONCERT

Nobel Peace Concert to Honor Al Gore and Panel on Climate Change

Written by: Stacey Eisenberg 16-Nov-2007
http://thecelebritycafe.com/features/12360.html

Organizers announced Wednesday that Uma Thurman and Tommy Lee Jones will co-host December's Nobel Peace Concert, which will honor former Vice President Al Gore and the U.N.'s climate change panel, according to a report by the Associated Press.

The concert will be held in Oslo, Norway on December 11, the day after the Nobel Peace Prize is presented. Top musicians like Alicia Keys, Annie Lenox and Melissa Etheridge will perform in the concert, which will air in more than 100 countries.

Tommy Lee Jones and Al Gore were roommates at Harvard University, and Etheridge won an Academy Award this year for the "I Need to Wake Up" that was featured in Gore’s "An Inconvenient Truth."

Uma Thurman “brings iconic style and substance to the event and will help us tremendously in our mission of spreading the global message of peace,” said Geir Lundestad, the secretary of the Nobel Peace Prize committee.

The Nobel will go to both Al Gore and the intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change for their efforts in spreading awareness about man-made climate change.

NONVIOLENT PEACEFORCE - A GROUP YOU’LL WANT TO KNOW ABOUT

It may be hard to recognize human transformation while we’re in the midst of a war like this. But there are signs and symbols of it happening around the world, when you look for it. The quick evolution of the Nonviolent Peaceforce is one of those signs.

The group only began training its first unarmed civilian peacekeepers in 2002, but in July it was awarded Special Consultative Status by the UN. That indicates that the group has a special competence in fields of activity important to the UN Economic and Social Council. It also means they can designate official representatives to the UN in New York and Geneva, and allows them the right to address and advise UN agencies.

Nonviolent Peaceforce placed peacekeepers in several intense hotspots since 2002. NP Peacekeepers are trained to deescalate tensions between violent actors. Last May, an NP team went to Mindanao in the Philippines. Most people there live under very harsh conditions, and yet carry on through poverty, exploitation, pollution, violence and fear with enormous strength and perseverance. A village leader gave this report:

“Thanks to NP we did not evacuate our village earlier this month. We are 1000 people living here. NP came to our small village many times in the week following a recent clash when two armed sides were only separated by 200 meters. NP was communicating with the armed parties and with us by cell phone during and after the clash. Their continued presence gave us reassurance. They even offered to sleep here with us. The people said after one week they had enough confidence for their own safety and they would not flee. Send more civilian unarmed peacekeepers so we can stay in our village and not evacuate.”

We in the peace movement need to be aware of powerful work being done around the world for peace and nonviolence. This is work every bit as dangerous as military service, but is done by brave and peaceful people no different from you and me. These groups deserve support from us. Find out more about the Nonviolent Peaceforce at www.nonviolentpeaceforce.org.

WOMEN STILL SEEKING EQUALITY AND DEFENDING THEIR RIGHTS

• The US dropped six places, going from 25th in last year’s gender equality study to 31st.

• The Colorado Supreme Court ruled 7-0 this week to allow a proposed ballot initiative for the November 2008 election that would define a fertilized egg as a person. Colorado for Equal Rights, the anti-abortion group advocating the initiative, now has six months collect 76,000 signatures in order to place the initiative on the November 2008 ballot.

Why not leave voter turnout to the parties and candidates? Because we believe it’s going to take a sustained progressive movement to get principled leaders elected and then hold them accountable on our issues. As the late Sen. Paul Wellstone said, "Electoral politics is one crucial way we contest for power in America, and progressives need to get better at it." Why start this early? So we have time to add innovations to boost our program even further, including:

• Cutting-edge new technology to connect volunteers directly with people who might not vote without a reminder
• Fun and effective house parties to reach more voters—modeled on our 2006 calling parties
• "Microtargeting," a sophisticated targeting technique to find every progressive voter, even those in Republican neighborhoods
• A huge program to persuade swing voters and independents to vote our way
• A new effort to reach people who vote by mail, and make sure they hear from us as early as possible

We'll also work with our allies in the progressive movement to get every vote counted—and stop dirty Election Day tricks. But the best defense is a good offense. If progressives turn out in unprecedented numbers, the election won't be close enough for those dirty tricks to change the outcome.

IPCRI PEACE EDUCATION WORKSHOP
On January 4-5, 2008 IPCRI (the Israel/Palestine Center for Research and Information) will be convening a two-day workshop on peace education. The Workshop will bring together peace educators, curricula writers, encounter facilitators, peace studies practitioners, conflict resolution practitioners, mediators, and activists from academia, research sector, governmental and community organizations and others from Israel, Palestine and beyond.

The Workshop will be a tremendous opportunity for dialogue, debate and visioning with collaboration and cooperation between the body of theory and practice. The Workshop will be meeting grounds for dialogue and mutual learning from the field of peace education from the viewpoint of academia and from the field of practitioners. The Workshop will raise critical issues and acquire new insights into the profound peace education developments in Israel, Palestine and around the world. Furthermore, the Workshop will provide an excellent opportunity to build connections across multi-disciplinary sectors.

Main Themes for the Workshop
• Moving from a Culture of hate to a culture of peace
• Resources for peace educators
• Peace education curricula - research and development
• Coping with existing curricula in Israel and Palestine
• Using media in peace education
• Using the arts in peace education
• Virtual Peace education - using the internet in peace education
• Peace education in the informal educational arena - youth centers, youth movements, clubs, etc.
• Institutionalizing peace education - confronting the formal education systems

Participation - Call for Abstracts
IPCRI is calling on potential participants to submit an abstract for making a presentation at the workshop. This is not a formal academic conference therefore; abstracts will be evaluated on a wider basis than the normal academic criteria. We are looking for creative, exciting and innovative approaches to peace education.

THANK YOU TO THE FARMER'S MARKET CREW
Thanks to all of you who did a shift at Fayetteville Farmer's Market this season. Special thanks to those of you who did many shifts (you know who you are). Omni had great visibility throughout the spring, summer and fall. This gave us an opportunity to share our message, as well as recruit new members, and get lots of signatures on petitions to present to members of congress. We will be setting up shop again in April, 2008, and hope that some of you who did not have a chance to work this summer will volunteer in the Spring. Two hours on a Saturday morning brings Omni a large return for a small investment of your time.
