Proclamation 5732 -- National Immigrants Day, 1987

OCTOBER 28 (October 16, 1987)

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

Our national celebration of Immigrants Day is a moving reminder to us that America is unique among the nations. We are the sons and daughters of every land across the face of the Earth, yet we are an indivisible Nation. We are one people, and we are one in that which drew our forebears here -- the love of "freedom's holy Light."

This year we most appropriately observe Immigrants Day on October 28, the 101st anniversary of the unveiling of the Statue of Liberty, the beloved statue Emma Lazarus called "Mother of Exiles," from whose "beacon-hand/Glows world-wide welcome." That welcome is America's welcome, which has ever beckoned millions upon millions of courageous souls to this land of freedom, justice, and opportunity.

Immigrants have always brought great gifts to their new home on these shores -- the gifts of hardiness and heart, of intellect and hope. Two hundred years ago, immigrants were among the framers of a Constitution for these United States. They knew what they were about, for they began that charter of liberty and limited government with the words, "We the People" and created what a future President named Lincoln would call `government of the people, by the people, for the people."

One immigrant, J. Hector St. John de Crevecoeur, had described that people very well in 1782 when he wrote, `Here individuals of all nations are melted into a new race of man whose labors and posterity will one day cause great changes in the world." This prophecy came true, and immigrants helped, and are still helping, to make it so -- immigrants to a country and a people one in mutual loyalty and one in steady devotion to `freedom's holy Light."

The Congress, by Senate Joint Resolution 86, has designated October 28, 1987, as "National Immigrants Day" and authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of this event.

Now, Therefore, I, Ronald Reagan, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim October 28, 1987, as National Immigrants Day, and I call upon the people of the United States to observe that day with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this sixteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and twelfth.

Ronald Reagan

From the McCarran Walter Act to the Patriot Act
An equally important aspect of support for asylees and refugees is the long history of US political distortion of the process of rescuing people. Here are some examples.
--The US and UK bombed Iraq for a decade during a severe embargo (causing the death of half a million children UNICEF charged) and then invaded the country under false claims of Iraqi weapons of mass destruction (resulting in five million displaced people). Any decent person would expect us to repair the damage and rescue a significant number of those who have suffered. But our immigration quota for Iraq is small, and we have never fulfilled that small quota. Little Sweden has taken more refugees and asylum seekers than has the US.

--PATRIOT ACT: Tariq Ramada was finally allowed entry to US after 6 years, the refusal a consequence of the Patriot Act. He was banned because the US gov’t. accused him of giving money to a group blacklisted as a terrorist group, even though the group was not listed until a year after his donation, and the group was not listed in Europe. (Democracy Now 4-9-10).

--MCCARRAN-WALTER ACT: The fears and tyrannies of US imperial expansion today link back to the 1952 McCarran-Walter Act of the Cold War, like the later Patriot Act another manifestation of 70 years of US permanent war-making and suppression of US liberties. Dick

An alternate history of xenophobia and how we must overcome it together

In We Are All Moors, Anouar Majid contends that the acrimonious debates about immigration and Islam in the West are the cultural legacy of the conflict between Christians and Moors. Offering a groundbreaking new history, Majid explores how “the Moor” has served as an unacknowledged but potent metaphor for all minority peoples in the West, endlessly reincarnated by the majority. [Excellent on ending national walls and on Mexicans. D]

We Are All Moors excited me for its implications. The range is superb and reading it is a pleasure—Anouar Majid dances across continents, taking a thread and seeing what comes of it. It reminds us of histories long forgotten, and provides a useful way to look back to help understand the present.
