It's a Crime to Tell the Truth: Iran, Torture, Bill of Rights, and Visiting Snowden in Russia

McGovern is a nationally recognized commentator and speaker who spoke out early on about the security state developing. As a former CIA analyst, he brings an insiders perspective to observations on the CIA and related matters. He traveled to visit Eric Snowden recently, and has observations from that experience that Americans need to hear.

McGovern received the CIA Intelligence Commendation Medal, returning the award on moral grounds. He helped form Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity and the Sam Adams Associates for Integrity in Intelligence (named after McGovern's colleague at the CIA). McGovern and several other former intelligence officials went to Russia in October to honor Edward Snowden with the Sam Adams Award.

Plentiful FREE PARKING on Arkansas Ave. metered spaces, yellow faculty and green student spaces in UA lots, and parking garage next to Student Union.
